

BUILDER, SPEEDING TO ILL CHILD, FINED

John McClatchy, Racing to Hospital From Ocean City, Delayed by Law Guardians

ACTION BRUTAL, HE SAYS

John H. McClatchy, builder, of Merion, was held up and fined $25 by New Jersey constables last night as he was speeding to the bedside of his sick daughter.

Mr. McClatchy was at his home in Ocean City yesterday when Helen, his twelve year old girl, was suddenly taken ill at the McClatchy home in Merion. A physician pronounced the ailment as peritonitis and said an immediate operation was necessary. She was taken to the Presbyterian Hospital and a telephone message started Mr. McClatchy speeding here from Ocean City.

As he neared Magnolia, N. J., on the White Horse Pike, two men stepped out and stopped the car. They took him to the office of Justice of the Peace William Jackson, in Magnolia, and told the judge that Mr. McClatchy had been speeding thirty-seven miles an hour on the pike.

Mr. McClatchy told the magistrate he was afraid his daughter would die before he reached her, but was ordered to pay $25 fine before he could go on.

Mr. and Mrs. McClatchy were at the hospital last night when the operation was performed. This morning he was at the bedside of the child, who is still in a critical condition.

Mr. McClatchy today described as "brutal and high-handed" the way he had been treated by Justice of the Peace Jackson.

"I was rushing to the Presbyterian Hospital, where my daughter was to be operated upon, when I was stopped," he said. "I told them that I was going to the bedside of my child, and was willing to post any amount of money or go anything if they would only let me go on. But they insisted on holding me for a formal hearing and told me, though they were sorry, I should just sit down and wait. It seemed like hours, but it may have been only half an hour delay. But it was high-handed and brutal."

400 LOSE MIDVALE JOBS

Steel Company Force Reduced as Inventory Nears Completion

About 400 employees of the Midvale Steel and Ordnance Company at Eddystone are being laid off, according to government officials.

The reduction of force is due to the fact that the inventory work is now nearing completion, according to Chief Army Inspector C. B. Drake. The number of employees will be reduced from 1100 to 700, he said, as rapidly as possible without undue hardship.

About thirty men in the inventory department and 150 laborers were laid off last week, Mr. Drake said. Most of the men laid off in the inventory department were either crippled, too old for the work or otherwise physically incapacitated for manual labor, which is virtually the only class of work that remains.

One Hurt in Slaughter House Fire

John Hausmann, 5119 Westminister avenue, was burned about the hand this morning when fire partially destroyed the slaughter house of George Hausmann & Son in the rear of that address. The fire started in the engine room. Mr. Hausmann, fearing a boiler explosion, ran through the fire to open the steam gauge and was burned.

GIRL MISSING—TEN DAYS

Mother Prostrated by Lucy Arion's Continued Absence From Home

Search is being made by the police for Lucy Arion, fifteen years old, who disappeared from her home, 2056 East Albright street.

Mrs. Elizabeth Arion, mother of the girl, is prostrated and under the care of a physician.

Lucy, who is a graduate of the Stetson Public School, Allegheny avenue and B street, disappeared on May 9.

Charles Wolfe, a house sergeant of the Belmont and Clearfield streets station, who is a friend of the family, has interested himself in the case and when off duty is busy running down clues in various sections of the city.

SERVICE MEN HONOR GUARD AT PAGEANT

Guests at Industrial Art School Fete Will File Past Pupils Who Enlisted

One hundred and sixty-one boys from the School of Industrial Art who entered the war of defense are to be specifically recognized by the faculty and pupils of the Pennsylvania Museum and School of Industrial Art on Wednesday evening, when they will constitute the guard of honor at the reception to be given at Broad and Pine streets so that the invited guests can meet the members who have returned from war service and the associate committee of women.

There will also be represented, 200 women students who left the classes to engage in various branches of war work where their artistic training would be valuable. The honor guard will occupy the flight of steps on the Broad street front of the building, and the lobby will be used for the same purpose. Between these lines the guests will enter the school.

A pageant and working exhibition will be given illustrating the arts and crafts of those three important periods, Italian, Persian and Byzantine.

$1 THEFT CAUSES ARREST

Accused Porter, Caught After Chase, Must Put Up 799 More Dollars

A one-dollar bill left Elizabeth N. J. yesterday afternoon to see the city sights, safely encased in a pocket book in the coat of fourteen-year-old John Blares, 93 Broad street.

All afternoon the lad wandered the streets, and near midnight the boy and the dollar wound up in Broad street station. There, according to the boy's story, the envious glances of a porter, John Greene, a negro, fell upon the dollar bill.

"Look there!" said the porter, pointing to one corner of the station, and when the boy looked the one-dollar bill was captured. The boy notified Patrolman Ewing. Greene was caught after a chase of several blocks. Several shots were fired at the fleeing man.

At a hearing before Magistrate Grellis today the one-dollar bill was very proud, for it had caused as much excitement as a movie hero. And before his captor was released he must deposit 799 other bills of the same denomination.

2000 ARE DISCHARGED FROM CAMP AT DIX

Twenty More Pennsylvanians Arrive Here on Haverford With 107th Engineers

FIVE FROM PHILADELPHIA

Nearly 2000 Pennsylvania soldiers have been discharged from the service at Camp Dix in the last twenty-four hours, the largest single unit being the 107th Infantry, of the Twenty-eighth Division, with the exception of Company M. This regiment was composed largely of the old Thirtieth Pennsylvania National Guard, Scranton, Pa., contributed a large portion of this regiment, and 500 of the survivors returned to their homes there today.

Others discharged included detachments of the 104th Engineers and the 103d Signal Battalion, headquarters of the Fifty-seventh Brigade and a detachment of Philadelphia of the Fifty-third Pioneers.

Despite the outpouring of discharged troops, the camp had a larger population at "taps" than at " reveille" yesterday, owing to the arrival of the Thirty-second Division veterans and other troops arriving here on the Haverford. A thirty-seven man boat was sent down the river to take the Haverford yesterday. The police band, the Red Cross and the welfare organizations were on the pier, however, and gave them a hearty welcome.

Twenty Pennsylvanians, five of whom are from this city, returned on the Haverford, which docked at Snyder avenue wharf yesterday with the 107th Engineers of the Thirty-seventh Division. The men are going through the preliminary demobilization steps at Camp Dix today.

Walnut Street Merchants Meet

The Walnut Street Business Association will give a luncheon today in the Bellevue-Stratford Hotel. There will be a reception to the new president, E. S. Gardner, president of the Middle City Bank. Mr. Gardner will respond with an address. The award of the booster prize will also be made to the lucky member. This presentation will be made by Ferdinand Keller.

Stammerers to Be Taught

M. B. Ross will instruct a class which the Central Y. M. C. A. is organizing for girls and boys who stammer or stutter or are in any way handicapped by imperfect speech.

GODFREY 'MUM' ON QUITTING

Drexel Head Declines to Comment on Demand for Resignation

Dr. Hollis Godfrey, president of Drexel Institute, declined today to make any comment on the demand of a group of alumni that he resign as head of the institution.

Graduates of the engineering department, headed by L. R. Young, met Saturday night and made preliminary plans for a formal demand for Doctor Godfrey's resignation.

The alumni want Doctor Godfrey to get out, Mr. Young says, because he is not carrying out the ideas of the founder of Drexel.

If Doctor Godfrey refuses to heed the alumni, Mr. Young says, the organization will withdraw its support from Drexel and disband.

Doctor Godfrey has been president of Drexel for three years, succeeding Dr. James McAllister, who was president from its foundation until his death in 1915. Doctor Godfrey came here from the Massachusetts School of Technology.
